

IRISH QUESTION AGAIN IS UNDER DISCUSSION

Complaint Against Present Government Involved With Conscription Threat.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, October 11.—The Irish question was again brought to the fore in the house of commons today with the introduction by John Redmond of a motion criticizing the system of government of the island. The motion reads:

"That the system of government at present maintained in Ireland is inconsistent with the principles whereof the allies are fighting in Europe, and is an obstacle to the peace of the world."

Since Mr. Redmond gave notice of his intention to attack the government the Irish leaders have held a number of conferences with Baron Wimborne, lord lieutenant of Ireland, but these probably had more to do with the suggestion of extension of conscription to Ireland than with the grievances arising from the failure to release all those arrested during the uprising in Ireland last spring.

Conscription Not Involved.

However, the question of conscription did not come under Mr. Redmond's motion. It doubtless will be discussed tomorrow, when the whole subject of the man power of the empire comes under review.

John Redmond, unionist, moved as an amendment to the Redmond motion the following: "Having regard for the importance of the United Kingdom and Ireland combining with the rest of the empire in presenting a united front to the enemy, it is not desirable at the present time to discuss controversial matters of domestic politics."

To Appeal for Volunteers.

An indication that the government does not intend to have recourse immediately to conscription in Ireland was given in the house of lords yesterday by Earl Derby, undersecretary for war.

In reply to a question he said that, pending a decision of the whole question, he would make an appeal for volunteers recruiting in Ireland, to which he hoped there would be a worthy response.

HAS POWDERLESS GUN.

Howard Gau Here to Interest Army Ordnance Officers.

Howard Gau, a graduate of the Ohio Mechanics' Institute of Cincinnati, is in this city endeavoring to interest ordnance officers of the army in his invention of a powderless gun projectile. He says that the new weapon eliminates the detonation and smoke which make guns easily discoverable by aeroplanes in the present method of warfare. In his gun, he explains, compressed air is used to discharge the projectile, which will have a greater range and penetrating power than any present powder-driven shell. Twenty to thirty miles is the estimated range. Discharge is caused by the combined use of liquid air and timers. The shell is constructed in eight, ten, twelve and fourteen inch sizes and are somewhat similar to shells now in use.
